

Announcer: Californians are choking on the air they breathe and politicians refuse to admit the real problem is too many people. Led by San Bernardino and Riverside Counties, California has the worst air in the nation, and our children have the highest asthma rates. In San Bernardino County, the cancer risk just from breathing is fourteen hundred times the EPA's standard. Sure, cars are the big polluters. But cars are driven by people. Too many people, totally fueled for ten years by immigration and immigrant births. It's time for our elected officials to recognize the real problem and make a safe environment more important than getting elected. We're Californians for Population Stabilization and we stand for a better environment through sensible levels of population growth. Please help us by becoming a member now. We're at capsweb.org. Or call 805-564-6626. Join the fight to control population growth fueled by immigration. Then we can all breathe a little easier.
