

Announcer: Congratulations Ventura County. You're known for some of California's most contaminated beaches. Storm drain runoff and raw sewage closed Ventura Harbor. Sometimes Hobie and Kiddie Beaches are dirty enough to make you ill. Because Ventura isn't coping with the waste products from its ongoing population explosion and associated development. Massive new expenditures are needed for new water treatment technology to handle increased bacteria-laden runoff. And too many people overwhelm efforts to cope with water unsafe to swim in. That's why your beautiful Ventura Coast is in one of the twenty-five most endangered eco-regions in the world. Yet, politicians refuse to deal with the stress that immigration-driven population puts on the natural environment. You can stop the contamination of your beaches. Contact Californians for Population Stabilization now. That's CAPS at capsweb.org or call 805 564-6626. Ventura is your county. Save it.
